Pick of the Week

You'll never see me in an airport or along cobblestoned European streets teetering in my heels. When I travel, my primary form of transportation is my feet and my shoes have got to go the distance. I just tried these cute ballet flats from Pluggz and love how stylish and comfortable they are. In addition to being made of lightweight leather, each pair has a black plug made of a carbon and rubber compound that serves to directly absorb energy from the earth. You literally "get grounded" to feel more energized. Pluggz are available in ballet flats for women and flip-flops for men and women: $39 to $129. www.pluggz.com
